Delaware-based Burriss Logistics purchases 55-acre parcel at 350 King Mill Road in McDonough, Georgia

The new property, located outside of Atlanta, to become Public Refrigerated Warehouse.

Milford, DE (March 3, 2017) - Burriss Logistics, a provider of public refrigerated warehousing and freight consolidation services, announced today that it has successfully completed the purchase of a 55-acre property at 350 King Mill Road in McDonough, Georgia (Just 33 miles south of downtown Atlanta).

The Delaware-based logistics company will soon begin construction of 250,000 square foot, public refrigerated warehouse (PRW) with 28,000 pallet positions, and an attached office on the property. The facility will create over 75 local jobs for Phase I when construction is completed in January 2018.

“I attribute the strong growth of Burriss Logistics to the family values and commitment to excellence shared by our team with all customers,” comments Brian Kyle, President, PRW Plus at Burriss Logistics. “The Burriss Team makes it happen and have enabled us to consistently expand our market to better service our customers.”

License to Chill

Burriss Logistics a nationally-recognized industry leader in temperature-controlled logistical solutions, is expanding their distribution network. The Georgia warehouse will allow the Company to further enhance a growing network of refrigerated warehouses, strengthening customer service.

“Burriss continues to evolve to meet the needs of our current and potential clients,” shares Donnie Burriss, CEO of Burriss Logistics. “Our expansion into the Greater Atlanta region highlights the growth, popularity and diversification we are experiencing throughout our entire operation. We are selected for our commitment to service, leading-edge technology and solid core values. We welcome new and expanded relationships.”
