SESSION 2 - REDEFINING THE SHIPPER-CARRIER RELATIONSHIP: MOVING TOWARDS TRANSPORTATION PORTFOLIO MANAGEMENT

There is no single best way for a shipper and carrier to work together for every traffic lane in a shipper's network. Different lanes have different characteristics and attributes that demand different levels of commitment and service. Similarly, shippers and carriers can have a wide range of relationships - from transactional and hands-off to deep strategic relationships. Because of these variations, shippers should consider matching the right carrier to the right lane using the right form of relationship. This session will explore how shippers and carriers can work together using a transportation portfolio management approach.

11:00 - 11:55 a.m.

SESSION 3 - INDUSTRY STATUS UPDATE FEATURING DISCUSSIONS ON REGULATORY, LEGAL AND CAPACITY

This session will look at the market from a 30,000 foot view to better assess market conditions, demand fundamentals, and the overall health of the market. It will connect the dots between the broader economy and the food transportation market. More importantly, this session will dive down into the outlook for demand of the refrigerated and temperature controlled market place from a shipper's perspective. We will explore freight demand, capacity, and cost pressures that will help you navigate these uncertain times and to make better strategic decisions for your business.

SESSION 7 - FOOD RETAILING IN A BRAVE NEW WORLD:

The food retailing industry has been in flux for years, as dollars are shifting from Boomers to Millennials. Trends such as healthy living, sustainability, technology and convenience were profoundly changing how and where shoppers spent their money. But retail change hit the fast track with the arrival of coronavirus in the U.S. In mid-March, business doubled seemingly overnight. Consumers shopped different stores, bought different items and started preparing more meals at home and consumers quickly realized every link in the supply chain is #essential. This session will help you understand the pandemic grocery retail developments and look at the changes ahead.

Jack Porter, Principle, GPorter Group. Jack started his Truck Dealer Career in 1977 with Mack Trucks, and finally ended up being one of the Founders of Valley Freightliner in Washington. In 2002 he left Valley Freightliner to be a Founding Partner of Decisiv, Inc. and started his Consulting Career. In January 2014 he started GPorter Group. Jack developed the TCA Benchmarking Program in 2003 while with Decisiv. He has moderated multiple Trucking and Truck Dealership Groups over the past 20 years. Jack became Managing Director of the Truckload Profitability Program (TPP) in July of 2017. His duties remain moderating Groups, setting TPP Strategy, and Growing the Program inside the TCA. He is a self-appointed "Business Fertilizer" and fierce Trucking Activist.

Anne-Marie Roerink, Principle and Founder, 210 Analytics, LLC. Anne-Marie specializes in quantitative and qualitative market research. Prior to launching 210 Analytics, she served as the Director of Research for the Food Marketing Institute (FMI). Responsible for all research projects, she distilled complex research data into usable and easy-to-understand materials for business audiences ranging from America's largest retail chains to single-store family companies. Studies and presentations included shopper insights; retailer benchmarking and trending in financial, operational and tactical areas; and internally-focused research such as conference evaluations and member needs assessments. Before joining FMI, Anne-Marie served as the Director of Marketing and Research at the American Society of Travel Agents (ASTA) and oversaw all primary and secondary research efforts, as well as the association's membership and conference marketing.

Erick Starks, Chairman and CEO, FTR Intel. Eric has spent his entire career in the freight transportation sector and is a leading researcher in freight modal share analysis and forecasting. His background includes research in both rail and truck freight movements and asset equipment purchases. He is currently one of the premier industry forecasters on transportation equipment demand for rail cars, commercial trucks and trailers. Eric is a frequent speaker at Wall Street analyst meetings, association events, and private meetings. He has a unique ability to communicate to his audiences how the economy, logistics, freight, and equipment demand impacts their respective business. He is an active member of the transportation community, former board member for NITL, and was instrumental in the creation of the Indiana University Transportation Board.

Sarah Thomas, Keynote Speaker. Sarah is a football official in the National Football League. She was the first woman to officiate a major college football game, a bowl game, and a Big Ten stadium game. In early 2015 she was hired as the first full-time female official in NFL history. For the 2020 NFL season, she is on the officials crew headed by Referee John Hussey. She is currently a Down Judge and wears number 53. Sarah also speaks professionally on the topic of empowerment.

Alexander Voets, Sales and Marketing Manager, Daimler Trucks North America. Alexander works on Daimler's future electric commercial vehicles in North America. Under its Freightliner brand, Daimler Trucks will introduce class 6-8 battery-electric trucks to the market in 2022 and is currently working closely with its customers to actively shape these products. With its Innovation Fleet and Customer Experience Fleet pilot projects, Freightliner already has over 30 trucks in customer hands that deliver real freight on real routes today. Alexander has spent his career in areas where automotive and technology industries meet. He has launched several Connected Car projects, oversaw the Autonomous Driving team for an OEM and served as Software Development Manager for in-vehicle entertainment applications.
